Punkify
LANGUAGE SCHOOL

Falando sobre tempo em inglês

Profa. Nicole

letspunkify @letspunkify punkify.com

Punkify
LANGUAGE SCHOOL

Expressões que indicam tempo

Profa. Nicole

Time expressions

Past	Present	Future
yesterday	today	tomorrow
last week	this week	next week
last month	this month	next month

Time expressions

Past	Present	Future
in the past	now/nowadays	in the near future
a long time ago	these days	in the distant future

Time expressions

Today

- Today is a beautiful day.
- I have a lot of work today.
- I am feeling tired today.

Time expressions

Yesterday

- Yesterday was a beautiful day.
- I had a lot of work yesterday.
- I was feeling tired yesterday.

Time expressions

Tomorrow

- Tomorrow will be a beautiful day.
- I will have a lot of work tomorrow.
- I am going to feel tired tomorrow.

yesterday - today - tomorrow

- a) I was feeling tired yesterday.
- b) I am feeling nostalgic today.
- c) I am going to feel anxious tomorrow.

I THINK I NEED TO KILL SOME TIME.
NOT IF TIME KILLS YOU FIRST.

Time expressions: idioms

- (to) kill time

Do you work here?

No, I'm just killing time while I wait for my sister.

Time expressions: idioms

- Time flies
- Time flies when you are having fun!
- It feels like yesterday when I started college, but now I'm graduating - time flies!

Time expressions: idioms

- Once in a blue moon
- John lives in Europe, so we only see him once in a blue moon.
- I'm not a big fan of chocolate cake, but I eat a slice once in a blue moon.

Time expressions: idioms

- (to) have plenty of time

Are you sure you can help me now?

Sure, I have plenty of time!

Time expressions: idioms

- take your time

When should I return your book?

Don't worry, take your time.

Time expressions: idioms

- (to) run out of time
- The chef was so busy preparing other dishes that she ran out of time to make the dessert.
- Hurry! We're running out of time!

Time expressions

time flies

take your time

once in a blue moon

Time expressions

- a) No, thanks. I'm just killing time.
- b) Don't worry, I have plenty of time.
- c) Hurry! We are running out of time!